COMEDY

Final night to see festival show

TERRITORIANS who love a laugh may want to head down to the Darwin Entertainment Centre tonight.

The Melbourne International Comedy Festival Roadshow is on its Australian tour and has one final night in the NT. UK comedian-writer Bob Franklin said it had been about three years since he last visited.

The tour stopped in Alice Springs before travelling to Darwin.

Franklin said it was a little strange playing to a crowd he felt hadn't seen a lot of live comedy.

"I think it takes a while for them to get their heads around the whole concept," he said.

Bob Franklin

After coming to Australia on a working visa in 1989 Franklin said he hadn't looked back.

He has appeared numerous times on Thank God You're Here and in Aussie films The Craic and Boy Town.

Joining Franklin on this tour are Mike Wilmont (Canada), Marina Franklin (US), MC Justin Wilmont and Hannah Gadsby.

Melbourne International Comedy Festival Roadshow at DEC tonight. Tickets: $39; conc. and group of 10: $36; members $33.

LIVE MUSIC

Kununurra's Chris Matthews is back in the Territory

Nice to be back

AFTER a three year absence from the Top End, one of the industry's truly hard workers and all-round nice guys makes his awaited return.

Chris Matthews bases himself in Kununurra, embedded in the Kimberley region of WA, these days but is excited to be coming "down the road" back to Darwin.

"I've done five laps of the country in the last five years," he said.

"So for me it really is just down the road."

An undeniably talented guitarist, he said he bought his first off a mate when he was 13 so he could "learn how to play Metallica songs".

"The first thing I learnt was the solo from Metallica's One," he said. It would appear this was an indication of things to come with Matthews' style driven by fingerpicking notes and chords rarely played.

He likens his sound to the likes of Jeff Lang, David Mann and John Butler.

On more than one occasion he has been greeted post-show with the response: "I have never, ever in my life seen anyone play the guitar like that..."

He was due for a CD release in the very near future but has been delayed. But he assures us that by June 1, debut album It Goes to Eleven will grace the shelves.

Chris Matthews at Darwin Railway Club tonight; Parap Markets, tomorrow; Jabiru Sports Club tomorrow; and Humpty Doo Hotel on Sunday.
